ABSTRACT

The guide consists of patterns for making ten hand puppets based on Spanish games and characters. These hand puppets can be used by the teacher or student. They can be made of felt or construction paper. These hand puppets can teach a simple song and game or become a means of introducing many things. The patterns are for the characters of Cri Cri, Patito, and Patita which are characters from traditional children's songs in Mexico, and Topo Gigio which is a television character with a squeeky voice. Naranja Dulce, Limon Partido, and La Vibora are suggested by traditional Mexican children's games. El policia, El Ladron, and La Nina can be used in teaching the vocabulary of furniture and clothing. SUGGESTED USES

These hand puppets can be used by teacher or student, can be made of felt or construction paper, and can teach a simple song and game or become a means of introducing many things into Spanish Circle time.

They also make an excellent parent project.

For sewn, felt puppets, cut the pieces out of felt along the outside solid lines. The inside, dotted lines are for stitching. HINT: stitch the bodies together and then trim around to 1/4" from the stitching line.

Facial features are attached with white glue. Allow to dry thoroughly.

CRI CRI, PATITO, and PATITA are characters from traditional children's songs in Mexico. See CANCIONERO INFANTIL (1976, LOS AMIGUITOS) for words and music.

TOPO GIGIO is a television character with a squeeky voice. His puppet can be used to accompany and pantomine his records.

NARANJA DULCE, LIMON PARTIDO, and LA VIBORA are suggested by traditional Mexican children's games. For the games themselves see JUEGOS Y DIVERSIONES (1974, LOS AMIGUITOS).

EL POLICIA, EL LADRON, and LA NIÑA were created to use in teaching the vocabulary of furniture and clothing. For the games to accompany these puppets, see JUEGOS Y DIVERSIONES (1974, LOS AMIGUITOS).
